Are You Exercising Your Skin ?

We are all bombarded by the media today about ways to diet and exercise. All of this information is directed at the muscles and fat layers of our bodies. I often ask the question, "How often do you exercise your skin??" Because the answer is commonly, "How?", I wanted to discuss how we exercise the skin.

The following list describes the various options available today:

❖ Daily use of effective products. Not all products are alike and a home treatment program should be discussed with your skin care health professional.

❖ Effective exfoliation such as light glycolic acid peels and Microdermabrasion

❖ Mesotherapy - introduction of agents known to enhance the quality of elastic and collagen fibers in the skin.

As time marches on, the tissues in our body become deplete of the nutrients and basic building components necessary for repair. As a result, neglect in replenishing these components, leads to aging. In previous issues, we spoke about oral supplements that are necessary to take daily to combat this process. The problem with the skin is getting these same components to absorb topically. While some of the topical skin care solutions maintain the skin, they are not effective by themselves. After many years of performing photofacials and seeing the response of the skin, I recently introduced a way to further enhance that treatment and "Exercise the Skin". With the advent of a painless process called aquaphoresis, we can now deliver essential nutrients into the skin to help reverse the aging process. The treatment can be done on a monthly basis and incorporates the combination of benefits of the photofacial and no needle mesotherapy. The treatment takes about 1 hour and there is no downtime for healing. Call and ask for information on this combination treatment. Your skin will love you for it.

Are All MedSpas Alike???

Nowadays, it seems that a new MedSpa opens every week. People are confused by the increasing number of facilities offering the latest cure. They wonder what are the benefits, where and who should they inquire about what can be done to improve signs of aging, unwanted hair, persistent acne among other concerns. When asked about all the new Medspas in the area, my response is, "good results come with experience".

Learn first what the various procedures can do for you. Learn what is effective and safe and what is not. When calling a medspa, ask the simple question, "Will I be seen by a doctor?" - At Youthful Images, the doctor is in!

As a Plastic Surgeon, I have been in the forefront of innovations in cosmetic surgery, the first to offer microdermabrasion and advanced skin care, the first to offer laser resurfacing, laser hair removal, photorejuvenation of the skin and acne photoclearing, and most recently no needle mesotherapy for cellulite and facial skin toning. With over 15 years of experience and 20,000 plus procedures, the only choice is what level of experience do you demand for your treatments.
